Stewardship Corner

Today's readings are about being chosen and sent. The prophet Amos was chosen by the Lord and sent to use his talents for the people of God. The Gospel recounts the story of the sending of the twelve. In the second reading, St. Paul reminds us that we, too, are chosen. For what have I been chosen? To whom have I been sent?

A Weekly Tip on Caring for Our Common Home

To help keep waterways clean and safe from pollutants, take steps such as using biodegradable detergents at home and in business and eliminating the use of disposable plastic whenever possible. Also, be aware that synthetic pesticides and herbicides can harm birds and insects that benefit agriculture.

All Saints Foundation

Giving a gift in your will to the church is not just for the wealthy. It's for all people regardless if you live on a fixed income, are single, an empty nester, a snowbird, have school-aged children, or just won the lottery! It's simple and will ensure your wishes are followed after you are gone. If you would like more information about leaving a legacy gift to All Saints Parish contact Tracy Huk at 319-363-6130 ext 111 or businessmgr@allsaintscr.com. ## Young at Heart Luncheon, July 17 - NOON

Come join the All Saints' Church members for the Young at Heart Luncheon on Wednesday, July 17 at noon in the social hall.

The speaker for this month is Sarah Cunningham a graduate from Xavier High School in 2020, and she then earned her BA Degree from Loras College in 2023. Sarah has been working since graduation in the Loras Admission Department and has joined FOCUS (Fellowship of Catholic University Students) as a full-time missionary. Sarah will be traveling this fall with the FOCUS team to the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point to help college students grow in their faith and relationship with Jesus.

We all know that it is such an important part of our Catholic Church to help our children and young adults grown strong and continue growing in their faith. Come join us for lunch and hear about Sarah work with FOCUS.

There is no cost for lunch. Call a friend to attend and show your support of Sarah and her dedication to this important work.

Everyday Metanoia

Today's Gospel reading from Mark has five points of interest to take to prayer this week. The first one is that Jesus "summoned the Twelve." We aren't given any more detail than that, but I cannot imagine that Jesus summoned them by saying, "Hey, guys, come on over here." Rather I am convinced that He called each of them, individually, by name. During his ministry, Jesus showed the importance of names. Just like when a person's name is asked at the beginning of a baptism, Jesus called each of the disciples by name at the start of his ministry. Pope Francis emphasizes the significance of this as God "taking us out of anonymity." Our given name is then married to the Christian journey very specifically as we are baptized in the "name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit."

The second point of interest is that Jesus sent them out two by two. Mary Healy in her commentary on the Gospel of Mark says, "A lone missionary is at risk of discouragement, danger and temptation; but a pair of missionaries can pray together, encourage and support each other, correct each other's mistakes and discern how to deal with problems together." Ever since Adam and Eve, it is clear that God's plan for us is that we live, love and support one another in community. Jesus continues this in the sending forth of the Twelve in pairs.

Next, let's reflect on the phrase "gave them authority." It's easy to rush past this, but let's take a moment to unpack these three words. The twelve disciples were granted a share in Jesus' divine authority to drive out unclean spirits in conjunction with preaching repentance. Healy comments, "The fullness of the Christian gospel, the victory of the crucified and risen Lord, can be proclaimed only after the resurrection. But [the disciples'] message, like that of Jesus, carries authority; it is accompanied by works of power that serve as visible signs confirming its truth." So Jesus is setting the stage for the disciples to continue His ministry after His death and resurrection.

"[Jesus] instructed them to take nothing for the journey" except for a few essentials. Why? What is the point of that? Mary Healy focuses on the "poverty of their mission" in following Jesus' instructions. In so doing, the disciples needed to rely on God to provide the necessities; were freed from distractions through the simplicity of their bare-boned lifestyle, and came to depend on the hospitality of others, which becomes an important part of the early Christian Church life.

Lastly, Mark's Gospel has the disciples leaving on their mission. Their message? Calling for repentance from the people. Why this message and not expounding on the accolades of Jesus? Repentance (metanoia) is the life long call from God to turn away from sin and return to Him with a changed heart. We often use the word spirituality to describe our connection to God and the way of life that He calls us to. Missionary Oblate of Mary Immaculate, Fr. Ronald Rolheiser says in his book The Holy Longing: The Search for a Christian Spirituality: "Spirituality is not something on the fringes, an option for those with a particular bent. None of us has a choice. Everyone has to have a spirituality and everyone does have one, either a life-giving one or a destructive one." We are all born with a spirituality - the innate desire and energy within us. Some can name it as our call to be in relationship with our Creator, God; some, due to a variety of reasons, know this energy, feel this energy, but cannot put a name to it. As Rolheiser noted above, our response is either life-giving and brings us closer to God or destructive, emptying us, little by little or all at once. This is very complex, though, and not as black and white as it sounds. As Rolheiser sums it up, "Every choice is a thousand renunciations. To choose one thing is to turn one's back on many others." And it happens almost every second of every day.

If we can name our energy as the desire to connect with God, then just like the disciples, we become aware that we are summoned at the beginning of Mass, we are fed and prepared by Jesus as we hear the Word of God, we are given strength and a share of the divine authority in the Eucharist, and then we are sent forth to minister to others. This ministry that God calls us to involves making choices. We have the gift of free will and God lovingly wants us to will Him because we want to, not because we are forced to. We are imperfect human beings lovingly created in the image of our maker, God which makes us an "oh-so-human combination of sin and virtues." But what if we cannot name that energy within as the call to be in a relationship with God? To me, that makes the work that Christians do as we are sent forth each week all the more relevant. What we say and what we do has consequences reaching beyond just our own sphere in life. It touches and impacts others. Observing what we say and do should lead those who do not know God to seek him, to ask questions of us. As the song goes, "...and they'll know we are Christians by our love."

Come to Mass this weekend (and the next and the next!) Our Triune God loves each and every one of us and calls us to be a part of the Mission. What will our response be and how will we invite more to the banquet?

Summertime Book Discussion

Join in reading and discussing Jesus' Alternative Plan: the Sermon on the Mount. We'll meet on Wednesdays at 6pm at church from July 10 thru August 28.

When Jesus talked about the Kingdom of God, he was talking about an utterly different way of relating to human society as we know it. He lays out a blueprint for this new life in his best-known teaching, the Sermon on the Mount. Rohr goes through the teachings of the sermon, explaining the historical and cultural context of each verse and offering guidance for what it means for Christians today. The result is a clear, yet challenging look at the alternative plan laid out by Jesus for all to see.

Please contact Cate Biro with questions 319-721-3102.

Two by Two

Jesus gathers his twelve apostles and sends them out two by two. He gives them authority to heal and drive out unclean spirits. He tells them to take nothing but a walking stick, the sandals on their feet and the tunics on their backs. If they were not welcomed in a town, they were to leave. The apostles cured many people on their journey.

Jesus sends his apostles out on a practice run. They are to preach as he preached. They will be anointing the sick and driving out demons. He deliberately sends them out in pairs because he knows they will need each other for support and discernment.

Parenting, too, is a job best done in pairs. It is an exhausting, frustrating, uncertain, business that can lead a single person to doubt his capability and sometimes even his sanity. If you are a single parent, get help! Find a couple of friends or relatives who will listen and help out. Connect with other parents who will listen, support (advise if needed) and champion you.

When there are two of you raising a child, learn to rely on each other. It doesn't matter if both parents work outside the home or one parent is the primary wage-earner, both partners should share equally in the job of parenting. Consult with each other often, making sure you provide an undivided front. If you disagree about a decision or position, discuss it in private.

Jesus tells his disciples that where two or three are gathered in his name, he is with them (Matthew 18:20). This is the distinct advantage of Christian parenting; we know we are not alone. Just as the apostles knew Jesus walked with them in their ministry, we know Christ is also with us.

FAMILY RESPONSE

Ask each family member to talk about the last time they needed help from someone. What did they do?

PERSONAL RESPONSE

What part of parenting do you most need help with? Where and how can you get that help? What do you want to remember from last week? What are you looking forward to next week? What are your concerns?

IMPACT REPORT

I encourage you to read this report in full, not only to learn about what we've been able to accomplish through ArchdioceseOne, but also to understand the scope of our remaining needs for these beneficiaries, and the work that will be required to solidify the foundations of the church in the Archdiocese of Dubuque for the generations of Catholics to come.

CATHEDRAL of ST RAPHAEL

Thanks to the generosity of donors to ArchdioceseOne, necessary repairs to the Cathedral of St. Raphael and its campus have been made to ensure the structural integrity of the buildings.

In Phase 1 of the project, which took place during the summer and fall of 2021, the old parking lot was removed and cisterns were installed underground to help redirect water away from the Cathedral church and rectory, helping to alleviate the issue of water pouring the basement of both buildings during heavy rains. Repairs were also made to the foundations of the church and the rectory during this phase. After work was completed underground, replacement of the parking lot and sidewalks commenced.

Phase 2 addressed repairs to the exterior of the campus buildings. Repairs were made to the bells and steeple on the Cathedral tower, replacing the sheet metal on the top portion of the tower. The new metal was then repainted to match the limestone on the lower portion. The Cathedral stained glass windows, particularly the ones in the Cathedral Center, were also repaired. Tuckpointing was completed to repair the exterior brick. This phase also saw the roof of the Cathedral being replaced on the Cathedral, Cathedral Center, and the rectory.

As the amount contributed to the appeal allows for the continuation of Phase 3, future work will include necessary indoor repairs, such as fixing damage to the plaster due to leaks in the roof, repainting, etc.

In the past year alone, Catholic Charities staff has tirelessly served 1,250 clients in the Immigration Legal Services program, a remarkable achievement made possible in part by the generous support provided by donors to the ArchdioceseOne special appeal.

Since the beginning of the appeal, the demand for the vital services Catholic Charities provides has continued to surge, witnessing a 75% growth since 2019 beyond the exponential growth that had already taken place before the appeal began.

Events such as civil unrest in countries like Cuba, Haiti, Nicaragua, Venezuela, along with the parolees from Afghanistan and the war in Ukraine have only compounded the demand for Immigration Legal Services in the Archdiocese of Dubuque. These events have further highlighted the need for this ministry in more communities across the archdiocese.

PRIEST RETIREMENT

Thanks to our archdiocesan community's support of priest retirement through donations to ArchdioceseOne, we are pleased to announce that over $2.4 million will be allocated to the Priest Pension Plan over the next five years, along with a substantial portion of the unrestricted funds donated to ArchdioceseOne.

However, since the launch of the appeal in 2019, there have been some significant additional strains placed on the Priest Pension Plan, including a noteworthy increase in the pension amount to match the salary increase for active priests as well as other economic factors. This means that we must remain committed to seeking additional funds to ensure pension benefits for all of our retired priests now and in the future.

SEMINARIAN

Between the kickoff of the ArchdioceseOne special appeal in the fall of 2019 and December 31, 2023, we've been blessed to have nine seminarians ordained as priests in the Archdiocese of Dubuque. Thanks in part to donations to the Seminarian Education Endowment during ArchdioceseOne, these new priests are not burdened with the tuition, or room and board expenses that come with studying at a seminary.

As we continue to pray for more men to consider the vocation of priesthood, and costs to educate our seminarians continue to rise, we need to continue building up our Seminarian Education Endowment to ensure that there are adequate funds to support our future seminarians.

NEXT STEPS

1 Continue collecting pledges and recurring gifts to the special appeal, as well as accepting new gifts for the beneficiaries.

3 Establish a plan to meet the remaining unmet needs of the beneficiaries.

2 Communicate the ongoing needs of the four beneficiaries and their ministries.

4 Report back to donors the impact they have made on the beneficiaries of the appeal and their goals.
